ROMANY PLAYERS SCORE ANOTHER BIG SUCCESS IN 'MR. PIM PASSES BY'

Milne's English Comedy Receives Warm Welcome in Lexington

PERKINS, LEADING ROLE

Capacity House Witnesses First Presentation of Week's Performance

"The Romany Theatre" raised the curtain for its second production, "Mr. Pim Passes By," at 8:15 Monday night, before a crowded house composed of Lexington's leading fanciers of dramatic productions, for a week's run of the sparkling light English comedy, by A. A. Milne, one of England's premier playwrights.

The comedy has for its setting, the home of a country gentleman, one George Marden, J. P. in Buckinghamshire and the theme of the play is centered around his wife, Olivia, Marden, their niece and ward Dinah, her fiance Brian Strange, Lady Marden, the sister of the head of the house, and Mr. Pim, the aged globe trotter, who thru his inability to remember names, causes the Marden family to be thrown into a dilemma.

The representation of the home in which the plot is enacted is furnished with antiques supplied by friends of the theatre, and each antique seems to vie with the other in depicting the rich traditions that are held sacred by the Marden family. Hanging above the mantel in the living room of the home is an original painting of a beautiful English lady done by a famous Spanish artist several centuries ago, and is presumably an ancestor of the Mardens.

The story opens with the announce-

MISS HERDMAN SPEAKS ON VOCATIONAL WORK

Lecture Given to Women in Chapel at Fifth Hour Last Wednesday

Miss Margaret Herdman, director of the Chicago Collegiate Bureau of Occupations, spoke in chapel last Wednesday of professions in general which are open to women and cited experiences she had had in securing positions for women.

She urged girls to follow their natural bent, saying that those of an inquisitive turn of mind should do research work and those who like details should do secretarial work. She spoke briefly of the qualifications and demands of social service work. She said in choosing a field one should consider how crowded it already is and the necessary preparation.

The chief requisite in getting a place in a business office is experience; other professions, special technical training. College women, she said, had 932 chances out of 1,000 for success. Although not technically

NOTICE!

The Catholic Club of the University will meet Sunday morning at 10:30 in the assembly rooms on Barr street. All Catholic students of the University, whether they are affiliated with the club or not are invited to attend the meeting.

K— DR. WARFIELD, NOTED LECTURER, IS COMING

Will Hold a Series of Discussions Here—Beginning February 29

Dr. W. D. Weatherford, president of the Southern College of the Young Men's Christian Association, prominent lecturer and founder and builder of Blue Ridge will be on the campus for a series of discussions on "Christian Leadership" February 29 and March 1 and 2.

Dr. Weatherford is recognized as one of the most prominent men of the south in his line of work and is authority on interracial questions. He will hold five conferences here which will not be open to all the students. Between 150 and 200 students will be admitted to these conferences on the recommendation of Bart Peak and the local Y. M. C. A. Anyone who is especially interested and desires to attend these conferences may apply to Mr. Peak for admission. The object of the conferences is to develop more active Christian leaders on the campus.

For twenty years Dr. Weatherford was secretary of the "Southern Student's Y. M. C. A." During this period he visited practically all the colleges of the country, holding evangelistic meetings and interviews. He has probably had more personal interviews with students than any other man in the United States. He is also well known as an author having written several books which were published by the best known publishers in the country.

Dr. Weatherford will hold conferences on the following five subjects while he is here: "Can the College Man 'Believe' in a Personal God?" "The Bible in the Light of Modern Scholarship," "Can the Modern Man 'Fray'?" "Who is Jesus Christ?" and "What is Christianity?"

The time of day and the meeting place of the conferences has not yet been announced but they will probably be during the evening in the "Y" rooms.

NOTICE!

All Freshmen must wear their freshman caps, and assume a more respectful attitude toward upper classmen at once, or members of the Senior class will start carrying clippers with which to admonish the offenders.

ELEVENTH VICTORY WON BY BLUE AND WHITE AS V. P. I. FIVE IS DEFEATED

Tech Team Throws Scare When It Takes Lead at First

CAPTAIN RICE IS STAR Scrubs Outfought Visitors in Final Minutes of The Game

Swamping Virginia Polytechnic Institute under an avalanche of baskets the Cats won their seventh consecutive and eleventh victory of the season, Tuesday night in the local gym. The Blue and White regulars went through the first half and the first five minutes of the second half and then retired in favor of the "wrecking crew" who continued the good work and piled up eight additional points on the Virginia outfit. The final count was 36-14.

The Tech five threw quite a scare into the Cat rooters by scoring six points on three field goals before the Blue and White could get started. Captain "Chuck" Rice broke the ice by making a free throw and the Kentucky quintet soon overhauled the visitor's lead and was never in danger again. The Cats were leading 19-7 at the end of the first half, despite the fact that Coach George Buchheit was content to experiment with his charges and shift them around considerably before the first twenty minutes of play elapsed.

In the second half, the regular Kentucky five was sent back in and after going five minutes at top speed, retired in favor of the scrubs who

WILDCATS CINCH STATE TITLE BY ROMPING OVER CENTRE THURSDAY 38-24

Danville Five Leads at Half But Is Outplayed in Second

The 1924 collegiate basketball championship of the state came to the University of Kentucky Thursday night when the Wildcats decisively defeated the Centre Colonels, 38 to 24, at the University gymnasium.

Although Kentucky's margin of victory was large they did not win without a hard struggle as the Colonels were leading, 15 to 14, at the end of the first half. In the second half with the substitution of Underwood, the Wildcats gained speed and quickly ran up a 14-point lead.

After the first five minutes of play, the Wildcats were leading, 6 to 4, but two long shots by Green gave Centre a two point lead which they held until just before the close of the half when Kentucky advanced one point.

The second half was Kentucky's by a large majority, scoring 24 points to their opponents' 9, besides outplaying them in every department of the game. In the last few minutes of the period with the Wildcats leading by ten points, there were able to slip in two crisp shots by holding the ball and making the Centre defense break.

Centre's goals were mostly the result of long shots by Green and Doolley, while the Wildcats scored by working the ball under the goal on pretty passwork. Milward and Underwood were especially good on crisp shots, each scoring several times via this route, the latter making ten of

K— SENIOR STUDENT OF U.K. IS SERIOUSLY BURNED

Dorothy Moran in Critical Condition as Result of Flames

Miss Dorothy Moran, of Louisville, a Senior in the College of Agriculture, was severely burned Thursday morning about 9 o'clock, while she was standing in front of an open gas grate in the dining room of the Kappa Delta House on East Maxwell street.

At the time of the accident most of the girls in the house were at breakfast, and Miss Moran was standing in front of the fire before starting to walk to the University. Her clothing caught on fire and her back and arms were severely burned and her hair singed before the girls in the room could smother the flames out. She was taken to the Good Samaritan Hospital at once in care of two physicians who were summoned. Miss Moran's mother was telephoned immediately and is expected to arrive in Lexington today.

77 FACULTY MEMBERS ARE ACTIVE IN RELIGIOUS WORK

The Y. M. C. A. secretary, Bart Peak, class of '17, last week sent out a questionnaire to all members of the faculty to ascertain how many of them were actively engaged in church or Sunday school work. This was done because it is often unjustly charged that the faculty of the University is composed of a group of professors who are not Christians. It is often even charged that the faculty contains a number of infidels and atheists.

Of 235 faculty members who received questionnaires more than 100 answers were received. Practically all the answers were from the faculty members who are teachers in Sunday schools, Y. M. C. A. classes or members of church and Sunday school boards. Fifteen professors stated that they were teachers of Sunday school classes, seven are officials in their Sunday schools and eleven are members of church boards. Twelve faculty members were both teachers in the Sunday school and members of the church board. Twenty-four stated that they were Sunday school teachers in their home towns before moving to Lexington.

An additional eleven members of the faculty are teaching Y. M. C. A. Bible classes in the dormitories, fraternity houses and boarding houses. The Y. M. C. A. Bible classes are attended by groups of students, numbering from 10 to 30 in a group. Two other faculty members not mentioned before are on the advisory board of the Y. M. C. A.

A total of 77 professors and instructors are engaged in religious work of some kind, the answers showed, and most of them are engaged in religious work for the benefit of the students of the University. This means that one out of every three members of the faculty is assisting in religious and moral training of some group of students.

DEAN COOPER OUTLINES ASSOCIATION'S VALUE

The Alumni Association fills a need both for the University and for the Alumni. It carries to the alumni a continuation of the ideals of the University, a knowledge of its development and information as to its difficulties or the obstacles which confront its advancement. Likewise, the Alumni Association gives to the University the hopes and aspirations of the alumni for their Alma Mater. An institution's greatness and, to a large extent, its standing, are measured by its alumni and their sources. A mutual relationship and dependence are thus developed which are encouraged, fostered and made effective by an alumni association.

The Alumni Association has been the one organization which has constantly insisted upon the advancement of the University. It has developed favorable public opinion and has united a great group of former students as a force in forwarding the interests of the University.

CLUB HAS SOCIAL MEETINGPhiladelphia Alumni Entertained By George Lewis and Wife

The Philadelphia Club held its February meeting Saturday, February 2, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. C. Lewis, Bryn Mawr, Penna. Eighteen members were present and J. V. Burks from the New York Club was a visitor. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis entertained the club with a delightful dinner, after which the business meeting was called to order by President Lewis.

The nominating committee presented a slate of officers for the ensuing year and the men were elected by acclamation, as follows: Roy S. Clarke, ex-president; Henry N. Marsh, 14, vice-president; Robert S. Arnold, '19, secretary.

Thornton Lewis gave the club a talk on the Kentucky-Tennessee game, which he witnessed at Lexington last fall, while in Kentucky on a visit. He also gave the club some first hand information regarding the progress being made on the erection of the stadium.

Frank Daugherty and Louis McClosky were reported as being in Miami, Florida, while W. L. Goodwin and family are moving to New York.

A discussion of future meetings resulted in a number of suggestions, such as regular Saturday luncheon meeting at the Engineer's Club, dinner meetings at some hotel or meeting with some of the members at their homes occasionally. The matter was left to the executive committee and it is possible that all suggestions may be carried out at different meetings throughout the year.

BUFFALO CLUB NOTES

At the monthly luncheon and business meeting of the Buffalo Alumni Club, held at the Chamber of Commerce Building, Saturday, February 9, 1924, the Club by-laws were amended so the election of officers be held at the January meeting in accordance with the Association constitution instead of the October meeting. The present officers elected at the October meeting of last year are to continue until January, 1925.

Plans were discussed in regard to the Senior Inspection Trip to Buffalo and vicinity the first part of April. The boys will be shown the best in Buffalo both for amusement and educational purposes.

O. K. Dyer '04, President of the Club, was called to Louisville by the death of his mother, leaving Buffalo immediately after the meeting.

Gilbert (Gibby) Frankel '19, and Glenn Miller '22, have returned to Buffalo from business trips to Boston, Mass., and South Bend, Ind., respectively.

COME ON, WRITE

Just "betwixt us," the editor of this column would greatly appreciate more and longer letters from "you all alumni." If you have bought a car, married one of the other alumni or somebody from a different school, got a better job, or resigned from your old one to keep from getting fired, write to the Alumni Office and let us know. Several thousands alumni read "Betwixt Us" every week, looking in vain for some note from their old buddy. Maybe you have lost your old State sweetheart's address and maybe she has lost yours. Write a letter to "Betwixt Us" giving your address and when she sees it a notion to write to you may become feasible. After considering the great advantages which may be derived from a little correspondence "Betwixt Us" hopes you will sit down and write a legible letter, and be sure that it will be accepted and used, in part at least.

Alpha Xi Delta tea dance at Patterson Hall given by pledges for active chapter, 3:30 to 6 p. m.

The members of the University of Kentucky chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity will entertain with a formal dance the evening of Saturday, March 1, at Phoenix Hotel.

The members of Sigma Nu fraternity will entertain with a bowling party and luncheon Friday morning at the Phoenix hotel, following a custom established three years ago.

The alumnae of Kappa Delta sorority will give a party Saturday afternoon at 2:30 at the Lafayette Hotel, for the benefit of the crippled children's hospital fund, to which as an organization they contribute annually. The sorority has undertaken to care for three orphans in the hospital at Richmond, Va., and are encouraged by the physicians to expect that the children will grow stronger yearly through the training and care given them in the hospital and will be able to take their places in schools when old enough to do so. Teachers are procured in the hospital both for study and for recreation as well as graduate nurses and excellent physicians for the care of the health of the children.

Announce New Pledges

Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity of the University of Kentucky announces the following pledges: Messrs. Carl Lewis, Evarts; Edwin Darter and Gordon Davis, Louisville; William Edger, Versailles; Adolph Edwards, Walton; Charles Todd, Covington; Frank Smith, Mississippi; William Watkins and Hobart Grooms, Lexington.

Kappa Kappa Gamma Banquet

The members of Kappa Kappa Gamma fraternity of the University gave a beautiful banquet Saturday night in the ballroom of the Lafayette Hotel in celebration of founders' day. More than 100 members of the fraternity were present.

Miss Sarah Blanding was toastmaster, and gave a toast, "Kappa, Here's to You." Responses were made by Miss Carolyn Bascom, "If You Ask Us Why We Love You," Miss Lucy Sharpe, "Not Your Key, Oh, Kappa!" and Miss Mary E. Sweeney, "There's a Warm Spot in My Heart for K. K. G." A report of the house committee was made by Miss Catherine Christian.

Among the out of town guests present were: Mesdames Fielding Rogers, Paris; Henry Campbell, Louisville; and Misses Irene Evans and Maude Asbury, Paris; Josephine Evans, Lebanon; Ann Bell, Mary Colvin and Henrietta Rogers, of Louisville; and Mary Elizabeth Hays, Winchester.

Honor Miss Cleveland

Friday evening the Alpha of Kentucky chapter of Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering fraternity, entertained with a dinner in the palm room of the Phoenix Hotel, which was followed by a theatre party.

The palm room was very attractively arranged for the occasion, the dinner tables being placed in the form of a Bent, the badge of the fraternity. Beautiful lighting effects were obtained with numerous candles of brown and white, the colors of the fraternity.

The purpose was the recognition of Miss Katherine Cleveland, of Lexington, and the engineering class of 1924, for high and distinctive scholarship during her course. Miss Cleveland during the first two years of her course attained the highest scholastic standing in her class.

In the constitution of Tau Beta Pi, there is no provision for membership for women, hence Miss Cleveland was ineligible. By an act of the convention of Tau Beta Pi when it met in Lexington in October, 1923, it was voted that recognition should be given Miss Cleveland in the form of a specially designed pin, for use in this and any similar case in the future.

The presentation of this pin came as a surprise to the guests assembled at the conclusion of the dinner. The presentation in behalf of the local chapter was made by Russell Page, of the active chapter. Following his address, Dean F. Paul Anderson made a brief but very appropriate talk.

The following is a list of the guests: Misses Katherine Cleveland, Anna Williams, Katherine Woodsight, Ethel Bayes, Miss Johnson, of Frankfort; Mary Peterson, Lucile Coleman, Joan Robinson, Josephine Hughes, Zilpha Foster, Isabelle Van Meter, Rucker Cleveland, Ruth Rogers, Mrs. Chas. F. Wood, Misses Edna Gordon, Martha Elliott, Miriam Heyman, Mrs. F. Paul Anderson, Mrs. E. A. Bureau, Mrs. J. R. Johnson, Mrs. W. E. Freeman, Mrs. L. S. O'Bannon, Mrs. C. J. Norwood.

The hosts for the evening were the active chapter: Messrs. Charles H. Cecil, Russell Page, William N.

The pathways of power are the highways of progress

Before Alternating Current Dominated the Electrical Industry

What Engineering Owe to the Far-Sightedness of George Westinghouse

THE impregnable position now occupied by alternating current was attained only after a bitter struggle, for, due to its supposedly deadly characteristics, practically the entire electrical fraternity once opposed the progress of what was generally referred to as "Westinghouse Current."

Gauard and Gibbs originated the alternating current system in Europe. Their system was impractical in many respects, but had been used with some success for lighting.

George Westinghouse became interested, and immediately recognized that the weakness of their system lay in the design and principles governing the transformer.

He devoted the resources of his organization to the development of the transformer. When he made it a practical unit, alternating current, with its vast commercial advantages, then became possible.

The beginning of the bitter struggle by George Westinghouse for the supremacy of alternating current goes back to 1885 and 1886. Remarkable progress has been made since then and voltages as high as 220,000 are in commercial use today.

Engineering owes much to the far-sightedness and fighting qualities of George Westinghouse.

DON'T SHOVE

People, as a rule, are always in a hurry. Of course, we have more exceptions on campus of university than anywhere else in the world. Most of those who are not in a hurry are those who have no "next hour" class and like to linger and talk on the steps and in the passageways buildings, thus detaining students who are rushing to make the "next hour."

The passageway which is blocked more than any other, it seems to us, is the steps and doorway of the Administration building. After practically every class there is congestion in that doorway. Just because one has no class the following hour and can stand and converse with one's friends supplies no reason to assume that the other fellow has not; and the friends find it discomforting to reach the third floor.

This congestion is caused by both boys and girls but our observation has been that the girls cause more of it than the boys. A girl will go into the book-store and buy a nickel's worth of candy or peanuts and start upstairs with it. Just behind her is a student in a rush to meet the next hour class on time. As she goes up the steps eating her confection she meets two of her girl friends coming down; she offers them the confection and they accept; the three block the stairway in front of the hurrying students behind and talk and eat for thirty seconds or a minute causing other students to be late to their classes.

Our personal observation has frequently been that a girl would buy a confection in the book-store and block the stairway, so effectually that none could pass, three times before she reached the front door of the building.

The boys seem content to place themselves in the busiest passageway and back up against the walls to watch the crowds go by. They are not actually blocking traffic but they are taking up room that could be utilized by the passing students.

Why not be considerate and seek quieter or less crowded places to hold tête-à-têtes and treat friends? Remember these passageways must be used by some students at a particular time in order to reach classes on time and avoid confusion and disturbance by being late while the petty conferences which are held in these halls could be held elsewhere or at different periods than the brief space of time that intervene bell calls for class assemblies.

K PUBLICATIONS

During the current year at the University there have been several publications, whose first appearances seem to aim at the humorous, but in reality border upon the low and vulgar. They are in no way humorous and go to such depths with their coarse and banal comments as to be a source of embarrassment to the majority of the students.

It is the firm conviction of the writer that there is in no way an excuse for such publications.

There would be no place for them in a school that was exclusively for men students; to say nothing of a co-educational institution. They are detrimental to the reputation of the University and a reflection on the whole student body. The coarse humor that appears in them respects no persons, even the President of the University. Insinuating remarks are made about girls and boys with no thought of the unpleasantness that results to say nothing of the impression that is left.

The bulk of the material used is of the bar room variety and the very fact that the editors and compilers of such matter refuse to reveal their identity is proof enough that they know what the attitude of the majority of the students is concerning these would be magazines. The concealed identity gives the writers safety in saying that which they would not otherwise say. It is cowardly from the outset and no effort should be spared to find out the publishers of such sheets and no penalty would be too severe to them when they are found.

The injury to the University cannot be over emphasized and the appearance at this time, when the fate of the University practically hangs in the balance, is unforgivable.

We sincerely hope that there will be no more such low and degrading reflections upon the reputation of the University as well as that of the students.

K MISHAP EXPLAINED

Editor Kernel:

On account of an aggravating mishap in the handling of copy, not unfamiliar to the experiences of newspaper folk, an entire page of a review that I had the pleasure to write for the Lexington Herald, of the play, "Mr. Pim Passes By," as presented by "The Romany Theatre," was left out of the published account.

This page had the perversity to be the very page upon which appeared observations upon the work of Miss Marjorie Warden, who so admirably handled her role in the comedy. Her friends and admirers did not of course understand why no reference should appear affecting her outstanding part in the comedy.

The Kernel will do the writer a positive favor by publishing this explanation of an incident that is regrettable indeed to him. Miss Warden's work, as has been uniformly the case in all her appearances, was superb.

ment of Bryan's engagement to Dinah, and George Marden, takes the view that they should not marry in opposition to the opinion of his wife. An argument over the engagement results in dissension in the family which is complicated by Mr. Pim, who confuses Mrs. Marden's first husband, supposedly dead, with a man whom he recently met.

Mrs. Marden divulges to her present husband the fact that her first mate was a convict. Marden declares her a bigamist and she is only saved from distressing embarrassment by the appearance of Mr. Pim who recalls that he has made a mistake in the name of the man whom he recently met and supposed to be her husband. The Mardens are, after much pleading on the part of the head of the house, reunited, and their reunion paves the way for the marriage of Brian and Dinah, on whom the final curtain descends as they lay plans for the first year of their marriage.

Mr. Pim, that lovable old gentleman on whose shoulders rested the success or the failure of the play, was enacted by Troy Perkins, who interpreted the part of the sedate, blundering old fellow whose action supplied the vehicle for the humor of the play. His make-up was perfect, his acting wonderful. The manner in which he spoke his lines gained for him numerous encores and kept the audience in a continuous state of laughter.

Olive, played by Marjorie Warden, was done as only Miss Warden could have possibly portrayed the part. Her lines were spoken with a realistic eagerness that made one pause and wonder if he were not witnessing a scene from real life enacted before him, the successful outcome of which was really vital to future happiness. Her delicate humor, and her characterization of the part "went over" tremendously.

Frank Morehouse, playing the part of George Marden, succeeded in handling his trying part so well that he contributed much to an evening of genuine entertainment. His logic to the end that his wife was a bigamist was one of the clever bits of acting in the play.

The role of Dinah was entrusted to Violet Young, who portrayed her part well. Some times she verged a bit on overacting the role, but this defect was overbalanced by her splendid acting in the closing scenes of the play.

Brian Strange, Dinah's love-sick sweetheart, was played by Oscar Hambleton. Hambleton in the portrayal of this role was all that any audience could expect. He was a real living lover who carried the audience back to their younger days when they were just as free, just as expectant, as Brian was Monday evening.

Regina Stanfield acted the part of Lady Marden well and though it was a minor role, gained for herself the plaudits of the audience with her humorous remarks. Elizabeth Moorman played the role of Ann, the maid. The Maid.

The production as a whole was a success. The roles were enacted with a near perfection, that made the play one of the best acted that has appeared in Lexington recently barring none of the traveling companies producing similar plays.

Mr. Milne will never see his play more ably handled by little theatre players than it was last night by the players off the "Romany Theatre."

It is safe to say that the author anglicized the play with such a degree of finesse that one might have thought home to be London, instead of the Bluegrass State.

The Engineering Salesman

By E. H. SNIFFIN

What is the engineering student going to do when he leaves college? What is to be his career? Why has he studied engineering? Is the engineering profession his objective? Or does the field of business present the most attractive possibilities in which engineering knowledge and engineering training will be of value to him? Many a good engineer has been spoiled in attempting to do something else, and many a man has remained in engineering work who had the talent for greater world service in other directions.

There have perhaps been more mistakes made in the field of selling than in any other occupation. That is because the average man looks upon selling not as a profession in itself, requiring very definite qualities of character, personality and temperament, but rather as perhaps the most pleasant occupation he could think of. It is a fact that the managements of our large industrial organizations admit very freely that among their various branches of service the good salesman is the hardest to find.

Are you a salesman? If you have the inherent ability, then you will need much training and much experience to reach your full size. When you sell you are dealing with men, not with things. Every man you meet will be different from every other. You will not be dealing with a concrete problem involving known substances, weights and dimensions.

The books are full of precepts on salesmanship, but one thing they fail to say is, that unless you have that love for the chase, that hound-like instinct for going out and getting the order, then you will remain in the rut of mediocrity. What was it the Man of Galilee said to Peter and Andrew when He wanted them to be His disciples? They were fishermen. He said, "I will make you fishers of men." What He meant was that He had certain great convictions that were to be implanted in the hearts and minds of mankind, and he wanted men who could go out and plant those convictions. And these men, believing in their product, and thrilled with their mission, went out and fished for men, just as a real salesman does today. And they had good preparation for their exalted salesmanship. They had been fishermen.

The real fisherman hangs on; tries one lure after another; fishes at different depths floats over a shoal and then across a weed-bed; works the boat close to a sunken rock, studying the habits of the fish, having the time of his life even when he catches nothing. That is the way a real salesman goes about this work. He loves to sell. We are speaking of the spirit of selling, for if the spirit isn't there, one had better keep out of it. The salesman was once the fakir in the bazaar, the trickster. Caveat emptor, let the buyer beware, was the philosophy of his calling. You must believe in the thing you are selling; first buy it yourself before you can sell it to others. And your work of selling is a work of dignity. Make it so. You are your company's voice.

But few words are required on the mental qualities of the salesman, and on his character and moral qualities. It goes without saying that he cannot get very far if people question his character or if his moral fibre is at all weak. He is in contact with all kinds of people, under many different conditions. His working hours are of necessity irregular. He is always a good deal and somewhat removed from the orderly processes of community life. Compared with the man who travels to and from his work at fixed hours, he may find more opportunity to acquire irregular or questionable habits, but a good man can easily stand that test. As to the matter of brains, the more, the better, but good judgment and common sense and straight thinking are needed more than genius. Above all things, know your product and its uses. Be a student of the economics of your business.

So it gets back to the first question. Are you to be an engineer or a commercial man, or perhaps a salesman in an engineering business? Some engineers are good business men, and are better engineers for it. And in an engineering business at least it would be hard to exercise good business judgment without having sound engineering knowledge. It is no less true that the occupation of selling requires just as definite qualities of fitness. Your biggest earning power can only be exerted in the kind of work that you best fit.

Note: One of a series of four articles contributed by Westinghouse E. & M. Co., in the hope that the information presented may be helpful to engineering undergraduates in analyzing themselves in relation to the engineering profession. The author, Mr. Sniffin, is in charge of the Central Station business of the Westinghouse Company.

SALVI, HARPIST AND LAZZARI CONTRALTO, TO GIVE RECITAL

Noted Musicians To Appear Here
March 3

Albert Salvi, the phenomenal harp virtuoso, and Carolina Lazzari, "the meteoric contralto" of the Metropolitan, Chicago and Buenos Aires Opera Companies, will give a joint recital in Woodland Auditorium, Monday, March 3, at 8:15 o'clock.

Although Signor Salvi is not yet in his thirties, his record of achievements is astounding. His playing has been the sensation of two continents. Probably never has any concert artist been a greater revelation to his audiences. He has revolutionized harp playing and has accomplished brilliant results which have hitherto been considered impossible for the instrument. He is truly "the world's greatest harpist."

Carolina Lazzari possesses one of those real contralto voices, searching in its appeal, even in quality, glorious and beautiful. "A beautiful woman with a beautiful voice and the combination is irresistible," says the Dallas Dispatch.

This extraordinary concert is the fifth and last of the Sixth Annual Artist Concert Series being fostered by the Lexington College of Music. Write or phone today for tickets. Prices are $1.10, $1.65, $2.20 and $2.75, including war tax.

ROMANY THEATRE NOTES

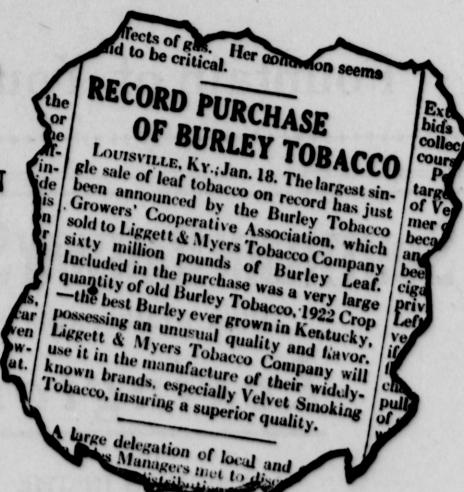

Due to Miss Margaret Anglin's interest in the Romany Theatre, its director, Mr. Carol Sax, has been asked to design the setting for her forthcoming play "The Great Lady Deadlock," which was taken from one of Charles Dickens' famous novels. The models for the setting were made in the University Art Department, and taken to the Bleakhouse Theatre, Chicago, last Monday, where they were graciously accepted by Miss Anglin.

The production of "Great Lady Deadlock" will be most elaborate; the scenery alone costing several thousands of dollars. Several of the effects are produced by methods never before introduced, but they have been thoroughly tested before adoption. The members of the stage-craft class of the University Art Department, and the stage crew, and staff, assisted in the making of these models, which contain in minute detail the actual stage.

Those who have seen the play, "Mr. Pim Passes By," now being presented at the Romany Theatre, will be given an opportunity to express their opinions of such in the form of a contest which has been announced by the theatre. A first prize of one season ticket to the Romany Theatre will be given to the person who writes the best review of "Mr. Pim Passes By." Two single admission tickets will be given as second and third prizes. All those who desire to enter this contest may do so and all reviews must be mailed to Mr. Carol Sax before March 1.

During the latter part of March, the Romany Theatre will present the sensational play, "The Witch Wife," by Wires-Jaansen. This play was translated from the Bohemian into English by the famous British poet, John Maysfield, and has been the subject of much discussion among the British literary public. It is a play full of suspense, and Lexington is fortunate in being able to see this play, due to the efforts of Mrs. Sallie Bullock Cave, before the Broadway production. Miss Margaret Anglin at the present time has this play under consideration for her New York season.

KITTENETTES WIN OVER PEABODY INST. MISSES

Uncover Formidable Attack and Hold Lead Over Tenn. Quintet

The Kittenettes defeated the Peabody quintette by the score of 21-11, Saturday, February 16, at Lexington. Kentucky gained a big lead in the first half which Peabody never threatened seriously to overcome.

Kerth was high scorer, making 10 points of the 21, but the team had such a good attack that there were no outstanding players.

It was the quick and sure passing of the team and asti accuracy Ywork of the team and its accuracy in field shooting that made Kentucky the superior team. The game was fast and clean, and was won by good team work. At the end of the first half the score stood 14-3. Peabody came back strong in the second half, and the individual playing of Collins put Peabody in the game, and secured eight points for Kentucky's opponents.

Transylvania defeated Peabody 15-12. The higher score of Kentucky gives Kentucky the lead over Transylvania for the state championship, without consideration of the indirect "dope" which Kentucky has over Transylvania. The Kittenettes are now in the lead for the state championship, having lost no games. The return game with Wesleyan Monday night will decide whether or not Kentucky has undisputed claim to the championship.

The undefeated Kittenettes have three more games on the home floor. They meet Chattanooga University Friday, February 22, and play the return game with Wesleyan Monday, February 25. Their chance for the Southern and State Championships depend on the outcome of these games.

Fred J. Murphy, newly elected head coach of the Cat gridders and diamond athletes was the guest of the Chicago Alumni Club of the University of Kentucky at its regular dinner last Sunday.

"Big Jim" Server, captain of the Cat eleven in '21, has developed quite a formidable court machine at Brookville High, McCracken county. The quintet's record of 12 victories in 14 starts is in itself evidence of the coaching ability of the former Blue and White star.

Unless weather conditions further hamper the plans of the contractors, the new basketball stadium will be completed in time for the Interscholastic tourney, March 13, 14 and 15. Although it will not be fully equipped at that time the new plant will be in readiness for play.

For the first time, the S. I. A. tourney and the Southern Conference basketball tournament will be held in different cities. The quintets of the conference will stage their annual gathering at Atlanta under the auspices of the Atlanta Athletic Club, while the smaller schools will hold their meet at Macon, Ga. The breach between the two organizations has widened until there can be no hope of merging them into the one association which formerly existed.

The University of Kentucky is the Bluegrass state's only representative in the Conference and the Cats will be the only team from this state to participate in the Atlanta tourney which starts next Friday. Centre and Georgetown will probably send teams to the Macon event, but Transylvania

EASILY HAND VIRGINIA
QUINTET 29-16 DEFEAT

Lexington Youth Defeats Cavalier Five Almost Single Handed

WILDCATS PLAY BEST

Highly Touted Outfit Fails To Force Kentucky Team Hard

Playing a vastly superior passing game, Kentucky's Wildcat five decisively defeated the University of Virginia quintet 29-16 on the local court February 14. The Cats stepped into the lead at the start and were never in danger during the remainder of the contest. Kentucky led at the end of the first half 15-6.

Jimmie McFarland, himself amassed enough baskets to tie the Cavaliers and proved to be the Virginia outfit's nemesis. His shooting was nothing short of marvelous and there were very few times when his shots failed to pierce the netting. Underwood, sent in for Rjeskin, played a splendid floor game and demonstrated the fact that he is again ready for a chance at a regular berth.

Holland, Virginia forward, led the Cavalier scoring with eight points and was the main cog in the visitor's attack. Towering above even "Chuck" Rice and Bill King, both Holland and Miller, center, were unable to beat the Cat guards in getting the ball off the backboard and had but few easy chances at the basket. Captain Walp played best for the Virginians on the defense.

Coming to Lexington highly touted and having lost but one game before meeting the Cats, the Virginians did not play up to expectations and easily fell before the Cat attack. The Blue and White five started off with a rush and had a considerable lead piled up before the Cavaliers gained an opportunity to score. The Cats led throughout the game and when the final gun was fired had a 13 point margin of safety.

To Rice goes the credit of the best game of the evening. This sterling guard presented a defense that was impossible for the Colonels to penetrate. Rice's height is an advantage to him in securing the ball off the backboard and he makes the most of it. He also scored three field goals for his team.

Although slow in getting started, when fully aroused, the Wildcats made things hot for the Centre defense. Heady playing quick passing and good floor work completely baffled the Colonels.

Although he played only 15 minutes, Underwood proved to be the mainstay of the Wildcat's offense. Coming into the game cold he fitted in perfectly with the local's team work and materially aided their attack.

Covington and Dooley played best for the visitors, the latter scoring 10 points mostly on long shots.

The Wildcat team will meet the strong Georgia Tech aggregation Saturday night in the University gym. This will be the last opportunity for local fans to see the Blue and White team in action this season as they leave February 29 for the Southern tournament at Atlanta.

outfought and outplayed the already beaten Virginia five.

All of the Cats seemed to have left their shooting eyes at home, for none hit the basket with their accustomed regularity, and missed many "crip" shots. Captain "Chuck" Rice was the shining light of the evening. His handling of the ball of the backboard was little short of perfect and his ability to outjump the V. P. I. forwards cheated the visitors out of numerous chances at the basket.

Sutton, V. P. I. guard, led the Virginia scoring with six points. Cousins, his running mate, who scored against Transylvania almost at will Monday evening, failed to register a single field goal against the Cats.

The summary:

V. P. I. 14	Kentucky 36
Carroll (c) 2	F. McFarland 6
Rutherford 4	F. Underwood 2
Saunders	C. Milward 6
Sutton 6	G. King 4

Kentucky—Hughes (4) for Milward; Riefkin (2) for Underwood; Underwood for King; Milward for Hughes; King for Riefkin; Poynter for Underwood; Wilkinson (2) for Milward; Alberts (3) for King; Boren for Rice; Hendricks (3) for McFarland.
